Jane Battersby-Lernard and Jonathan Crush

Food Security Network, which aims to achieve the challenge across all countries and food security in the South African context. It is concerned with the reduction of food insecurity in South Africa. The Food Security Network is a non-governmental organization that works to ensure that all people have access to enough food for an active and healthy life. It is committed to the achievement of food security and the eradication of hunger. The organization works to ensure that food is available, accessible, and affordable to all people, and to ensure that food production and distribution systems are sustainable and equitable. It works to promote policies and practices that address issues of food insecurity, such as poverty, inequality, and environmental degradation. It also works to support communities and individuals in their efforts to improve access to food and to ensure that food is produced in ways that are sustainable and healthy for people and the environment. The Food Security Network is dedicated to the goals of food security and sustainability, and it works to ensure that all people have access to the food they need to live healthy and productive lives. Its mission is to work towards a world where everyone has access to enough food to lead a healthy and productive life.